

"BEFORE AND AFTER" BILL NEXT WEEK AT THE COLUMBIA

Players to Present Leo Dietrichstein's Most Laughable Farce.

"Before and After" will receive its first performance at the hands of the Columbia Players tomorrow night, and the management expects one of the biggest weeks of the season.

It is one of the best farces from the pen of Leo Dietrichstein, who, in the original New York production, played the French colonel, Larivette. Everett Butterfield will be Larivette here, which is good news to his many admirers among the Columbia patrons.

The Dr. George Page of A. H. Van Buren, will differ in many respects from the one originally laid down by Fritz Williams, when the play was first put on at the Manhattan Theater, in 1905. Mr. Van Buren is even better as a light comedian than in some of the more serious roles in which he has appeared.

There will be Frederick Forrester in George C. Boniface's role of Dr. Philip Latham, the discoverer of the powder; George W. Barber replacing Thomas A. Wise as James Jeffers; John J. Kline as Edgar Driscoll; Arthur Ritchie as Anthony; Stanley James as Cassius; Frances Nelson replacing Katherine Florence of the original cast, in the role of Mrs. Page; Jessie Glendinning as the chorus girl, Odette DeVere; Emeline Melville as Cora Bell; Nina Melville as Mrs. Taylor; Carrie Thatchell as Louise and Ollie Johnson as the Shop Girl. The farce abounds in laughable situations. The story revolves around the administration of a newly discovered powder, and the excess of amity that results therefrom. Starting as an unbeliever, Dr. Page, a friend and fellow-practitioner of the inventor, is so affected that he actually speaks kindly to his wife, and, by mistake, kisses the wife of the jealous French colonel, who inopportunely appears at the time and threatens serious consequences. The comedy is fast and furious, and will give the players unbounded opportunities.

COSMOS—Vaudeville.
"Fun" is to be the keynote of the Cosmos show billed for this week. Heading the bill is an act built purely for laughing purposes, that of Cole, Russell and Davis, "That Jolly Trio," entitled "The Bogus Nobles." The story is told in two scenes, and is said to afford many opportunities for the talents of these well-known comedians.

Another comedy playlet of similar description but on entirely different lines is that of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas, "The Dog Thief." The story on which this act is based is said to have been suggested by a recent news article that received much local comment.

The Majestic Trio, Russo-Kirk-Randall, three members of the University Glee Club, will make their first local appearance after a most successful tour of the Lyceum. Their acts include George C. Morton, in comic impersonations of stage celebrities; O'Dowd and David, in a comedy singing and dancing duo, and the comedy acrobat in his novel creation, "Fun in a Gymnasium." New pictures will be shown at each performance.

Glen Echo to Have Special Concert Tonight

For the third of the special series of Sunday concerts of instrumental music, which are proving an attractive feature at Glen Echo Park, the management has secured the Soldiers' Home Military Band, which scored a real hit at their first appearance at this resort last week. For this evening's session, starting at 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock, Director John S. M. Zimmermann has arranged an excellent program.

Aside from the musical program ample diversion will be afforded pleasure seekers by the fifty-one amusement devices now in operation at Glen Echo.

Encouraged by the hearty support it has received in the endeavor to create at Glen Echo a resort of the novel and modern lines, the management is planning further improvements, and the announcement is made that each week visitors will find some new feature to attract their interest. One of the latest "finds" is a new building, and a number of parties have met at the park during the past week.

Street Car Employes to Get Big Sum in Prizes

Between $4,000 and $5,000 in prizes are to be awarded the winners of games and athletic events at the annual outing of the Washington Railway and Electric Employes' Relief Association, on Thursday, June 23. The excursion, which will be the eleventh annual one in the association's history, will be to Chesapeake Beach.

With every field of sport, from athletic events to the various games and contests for the aged, the committee on arrangements has prepared a program of such variety that it is certain the individual likes of every person can be gratified. Even the oldest person at the picnic is to receive a prize. The contests of the day will open with a shooting match in the morning and close with a fat men's race in the evening.

Treasurer J. T. Moffett, of the association, says the sale of tickets has been large and a successful picnic is assured. The proceeds of the picnic will go to make up the deficiency in the sick and death benefit funds.

Langdon Opera Talent Scores a Triumph

Sylvia was presented by a cast of local talent at Langdon Hall, Langdon D. C., on Thursday and Friday evenings. The delightful two-act opera, was well staged, and the parts well taken. Large audiences were present each night. The effort of the local musical lovers to give something outside of the usual attempt of amateurs was well appreciated. Dancing followed the entertainment.

The cast was as follows: Sir Bertie, De Lacey; Charles B. A. Allen, Prince Toby; Carl R. Engel; William, Alfred Groszkurth; Sylvia, Mrs. William S. Torbeck; Betty, Miss Katharine Whitcomb; Arabella, Miss Alma Groszkurth; Araminta, Mrs. Mabel Bowyer; Polly, Miss Beatrice Law; Molly, Miss Beatrice Law; Dolly, Miss Jessie Miller; Jolly, Miss Carol Harbers. Chorus of farmers' lads and daughters were also used in the production.

In Cast at Belasco

VERA MELLISH

"THE LOTTERY MAN" VAGABONDS' THIS WEEK'S OFFERING

Belasco Company Will Present Strong Cast in This Laugh Hit.

The Vagabonds company at the Belasco this week will be seen in Rida Johnson Young's farce comedy, "The Lottery Man," in which Cyril Scott starred for a year's run in New York last season, and which was seen at the Belasco last fall.

In addition to "The Lottery Man," Lionel Belmore, the stage director of the company, has arranged to have Fuller Mellich appear at the conclusion of the performance in the one-act play "Waterloo," in which he appeared with Sir Henry Irving for many years. Besides Mr. Mellich, the cast will include Lionel Belmore as Sergeant Archibald MacDonagh; Emmett C. King, and Margaret Snow.

The story of "The Lottery Man" concerns a young reporter who offers himself as a prize husband in a newspaper lottery. Coupons were sold at $1 each by the thousands and the winning number was to have the young man. In the meantime this venturesome reporter falls in love with a charming girl, and the ensuing complications form one of the jolliest farces of recent years.

Nothing may be written about "The Lottery Man" without mentioning Lizzie, the somewhat ancient maiden who has been a joy to those with heavy hearts. Lizzie is the last word in a sad and disappointed femininity, with no life-line in sight except her ticket in the lottery. Would such a woman sacrifice her virtue? Not much! For Lizzie wins the prize husband-to-be. While Lizzie is the last word in a sad and disappointed femininity, it is no joke for the reporter, and what would have become of his sweet romance if a mere butler had not discovered that Lizzie had acquired the winning ticket dishonestly is hard to determine. But Lizzie is found out, is forced to yield her claim, and eventually marries the policeman, and all ends as it should in a play written solely for laughing purposes.

Henry Mortimer will of course assume Cyril Scott's role of Jack Wright, the reporter, and it is hard to find a part that would suit him better.

Bernhardt to Be Seen In Baltimore Theater

Mme. Bernhardt will be seen at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, on Saturday, June 17, in two plays which have been produced by her this winter. In spite of a bewildering succession of 192 American cities and a repertoire of sixteen plays, on Saturday night she will present "Sister Beatrice," by Maurice Maeterlinck, and "Jean Marie," a one-act drama by Andre Theuriet.

"Sister Beatrice" is a miracle play, revolving around a beautiful nun's redemption of convent life for the joys of the world, her subsequent fall to the lowest degradation, and her final return to the convent, after an absence of twenty-five years.

"Jean Marie" is a one-act drama by Andre Theuriet. This play is built around the lives of three Breton people. The story is the engagement of a young man, who is to be married to the daughter of a poor fisherman, and his final return to the convent, after an absence of twenty-five years.

Cosmos Sunday Concert.

An elaborate musical program has been arranged for today's concert at the Cosmos. The usual orchestra will be doubled, and, under the leadership of Arthur Manvell, will render the following numbers: "Overture Romantic," Keler-Bela; grand selection, "Thaïs," Massenet; "Carnegie's Dream," serenade, Schubert; humorous fantasia, "The Village Orchestra," clarinet and cello duo, "The Serenade," Titi, by Messrs. Donch and Bonnadonna, and popular encore numbers.

The specialties include the petite Metropolitan Minstrels, the nit of last week's show; sketches by Red and Helen; and John and Alice McDowell, and humorous and novel paintings by Lorraine. Two new dramatic pictures and a foreign travesty will complete the bill.

CARMEN WILL OPEN WEEK AT NATIONAL; MARTHA TO FOLLOW

Edith Bradford to Appear in Title Role of First Offering.

One of the most pleasing bills the Aborn English Grand Opera Company, at the New National Theater, has yet announced is this week's offering, when they will present in "Carmen" on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, and Wednesday matinee, devoting the remainder of the week and the Saturday matinee to "Martha." Both of these operas were selected because of the popular demand for them.

"Carmen" is a musical depiction of the famous story embodied in Prosper Merimee's novel, in which the heroine is a beautiful gypsy girl employed in a cigarette factory in Seville. The libretto of the opera is modeled much like the equally celebrated drama of the same name.

Edith Bradford, whose artistry has shown in the role of coquette, wayward, and fascinating Carmen here before, will appear at all four performances in this part. Jane Abercrombie will have another appropriate assignment as Micaela; Salvatore Sciarretti and Domenico Russo will alternate in the role of Don Jose; William G. Stewart will be the Escamillo; Herbert Waterous the Zuniga; George Shields the Dancairo; Philip Fein the Remendado; and Zoe Fulton the Mercedes.

For the last half of the week Flotow's delightful "Martha" will be presented. While this opera is given as a grand opera, it is technically designated as a comic opera, and its great popularity is mainly ascribed to the beautiful melody which pervades it, and to its light and attractive character.

The central role will be sung at all four performances by Regina Vicarino, who in second in this part with the Aborn companies in other cities. The same two tenors heard in "Carmen" will divide the role of Lionel in "Martha." Mr. Stewart will have the baritone role of Plunkett; Mr. Waterous will appear in the character of Tristan. Miss Bradford has been engaged for the role of Nancy and Val Homans for that of the Sheriff.

At all performances of "Martha" the conductor, while Giuseppe Angelini will occupy the same position at all presentations of "Carmen."

Coming Attractions

NATIONAL—Extended Season.

Owing to the increasing popularity of the Aborn English Grand Opera Company at the National Theater the management and Messrs. Aborn have decided to extend the season here. As a result a bill of unusual charm to music lovers has been arranged for next week. "Faust" will be sung Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday nights, and Wednesday matinee, and the operas for Thursday, Friday, Saturday nights, and Saturday matinee will be "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci."

"Faust" with its charming music ranks with the most popular of modern repertoire, and is a special favorite here in Washington. Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" would be popular for nothing else but its intemperate however this one-act opera is filled with charming music, and although of modern date is one of the operas which never grows old.

"Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, has become popular throughout the world since it was first produced. The tragic drama story of this opera and its beautiful music make an artistic combination unusually effective and popular.

BELASCO—"Trelawny of the Wells."

At the Belasco Theater next week, the Vagabonds company will present "Trelawny of the Wells," a four-act comedy by Arthur Wing Pinero, which was first produced in this country at the old Lyceum Theater, New York, in 1888, with Mary Manning in the role of Rose Trelawny. Last January, Charles Frohman revived the piece at the Empire Theater, New York, with Ethel Barrymore as Rose. Briefly told, the story deals with Rose Trelawny, an actress in London in the early Victorian days. She became engaged to Arthur Gowan, son of Sir William Gowan, an aristocrat who bitterly resents his daughter's coming to the stage as an actress, much looked down upon in those days. She quits, then returns to the stage only to discover that she can no longer act as before, and her career is ruined. Finally discovered by Gowan and his father, who, in a beautiful scene, consents to the lovers being reunited. The play requires massive scenery, production, and a very large cast which will introduce new faces among the vagabonds.

COLUMBIA—"The Melting Pot."

"The Melting Pot," Israel Zangwill's greatest offering, will be produced by the Columbia Players, beginning a week from tomorrow night. It is a play that was first produced October 5, 1908, on the stage where it is now to be revived by the stock company. In the cast, which was an impressive one, were present: Whitelaw, Christal Hearne, Henry Bergman, and a number of other well-known players.

Its theme is essentially American, dealing with the making of the real race of American people from the heterogeneous mass of humanity that constantly flows from all parts of the world into the promised land, America, which the author likens to a great crucible. The play is one of the most meritorious of the season.

Fall of Troy Shown At Virginia Theater

The Fall of Troy, done into rolls of spinning picture film at a $35,000 outlay, is featured at the Virginia Theater this week, and is daily attracting large crowds. Every detail of the great historical event is reproduced with fidelity, and the production is a worthy one.

This week is announced as the last at the theater, and should be made notable by a large attendance of lovers of history in picture.

WEDDING OF GLEN, MARYLAND, GIRL IS SURPRISE TO CHUMS

Miss Ellen Kilgour Becomes Bride of Dr. Simonton at Rockville.

ROCKVILLE, June 11.—Miss Ellen Kilgour, daughter of Francis S. Kilgour, of Glen, this county, and Dr. Lawrence J. Simonton, of Cumberland, Md., have been married here, the announcement today of the nuptials was a great surprise to the many friends of the young woman, as it was not known that she had planned to wed. The wedding ceremony occurred Friday.

Miss Mary Agnes Curran and Patrick John Lynch, both of Washington, were married in Rockville by the Rev. Philip B. McGuire, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, the ceremony being performed in St. Mary's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hazel Caswell, of near Avery, four miles from Rockville, gave a dance Friday evening and a large number of the young people of Rockville and vicinity. Misses Mary Almondy and Mary Caswell, of Rockville, were the chaperones. During the evening refreshments were served.

Roger B. Farquhar, a leading farmer of Montgomery county, is authority for the statement that the month of May this year was the driest experienced in this country for fifty-six years.

Prof. Fogle, for several years head of the high school at Brunswick, Md., has been appointed principal of the Rockville High School in place of Prof. Roger J. Whiteford, resigned. He comes highly recommended and will be given up teaching to engage in the practice of law.

Mrs. James B. Bradley, of this town, has, by her attorneys, Boule & Boule, and Talbot & Prettymann, of Rockville, instituted proceedings in the circuit court here to restrain the carrying out of a caveat to the will of her husband, the late Henry Bradley.

They were married September 11, 1904. On that day he entered into an antenuptial contract by which he gave to Mrs. Bradley $20,000 in cash, to be a lien on the estate of a house and lot in Rockville, and prior to his marriage he also executed a will leaving to Mrs. Bradley the entire estate of which he might be possessed at death. George G. Bradley, Jr., Mrs. Martha H. Anderson, brother and sister, respectively, of Mr. Bradley, and his nephew, John C. and James S. Davidson, filed a caveat in the orphans' court here, alleging mental incapacity and undue influence.

It is claimed by Mrs. Bradley that the will was a part of the marriage settlement, and being a contract the orphans' court is without authority to frame its issues involving contractual relations. Because of the prominence of the parties and the novel point raised, the case is attracting widespread interest.

Plans for New Federal Buildings Exhibited

Much excellent work is shown at the ninth annual exhibition of the Washington Architectural Club now open in the hemicycle of the Corcoran Art Gallery.

An attractive showing is made by James Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the Treasury, the designs for new postoffice at Beverly, Mass.; the proposed Federal Building, at Minneapolis, as well as the new postoffice at Toledo, Ohio, and Fort Worth, Tex., are shown.

The work of the local architects attracted much attention and brought out favorable comment.

Dorothy Arnold "Found" By a Boston Merchant

BOSTON, June 11.—Another "Dorothy Arnold" has been discovered by a Boston merchant, who will not permit the use of his name. His story is that a washwoman in New York was called to a flat to do some clothes, and it was a mysterious place.

On her second trip she saw a woman whom she later identified by photographs as Dorothy Arnold. She notified the missing girl's father, who went to the flat, but the woman had fled.

Mary Garden Involved In Suit Against Sister

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 11.—John D. Lagen has filed suit for divorce. His wife is a sister of Mary Garden, the opera singer. Miss Garden will be brought into the trial in some way, according to C. L. Lagen, a brother of the plaintiff.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Lagen is in the city at present. Lagen charges desertion.

Embassy Changes.

With the departure, the latter part of this week, of Senor Zamora, Mexican ambassador, the embassy will be in charge of Senor Pereyra, the first secretary. Senor Zamora goes to London to the post of financial representative of the Mexican government. Ambassador Crespo, now in Vienna, will come to Washington in place of Senor Zamora.

To Tell of Foreign Work.

Two foreign Y. W. C. A. secretaries will spend this afternoon at a vaudeville service at Vacation Lodge, Cherrydale, Va. They are Miss Tottenham, member of the working committee of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Bidgman, secretary for France.

Guard Mount and Sacred Concert at Fort Myer

The guard mount and sacred concert at Fort Myer this morning drew a large crowd. The weather was all that could be desired, and long before the time of the opening of the concert at 11:15 the audience had assembled and was well rewarded, because the program selected by George F. Tyrrell, the director, was just varied enough to be attractive, and the numbers were all well executed.

The program was as follows:

March, "Tri Luminaria".....Barnhouse
Inspection, "La Golondrina".....Serradelli
March, "Fighting Tenth".....Tyrrell
March, "Our Potentate".....Carlton
Concert.
Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah".....Handel

Californians to Meet In Honor of Sierras Poet

Admirers of Joaquin Miller, the poet, members of the California State Association, the California Congressional delegation, and others will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the old cabin of the poet on Sixteenth street above Florida avenue. The meeting will be in the nature of a farewell to the cabin in its present site.

Whether the cabin will be set up again in Rock Creek Park is not yet settled definitely, although the general opinion is that the matter will be settled that way.

Fraternity Men Boom Fisher for President

Secretary of the Interior Fisher would be President if the members of Epistol Chapter of Sigma Chi had the naming of that official. The Cabinet member was hailed as fit and worthy of the highest office in the gift of the people, at a smoker held by the fraternity members in George Washington University last night.

Lafayette Pence, of Indiana, evoked wild applause and cheers from Secretary Fisher's fraternity brothers when he said:

"At the present time when the Cabinet is in session the President sits at the head of the table and Secretary Fisher at the foot, but I think the time will come when conditions will be altered in that Secretary Fisher will sit at the head of the table."

Besides Secretary Fisher and Lafayette Pence, many other prominent Sigma Chi men were present and spoke.
